THE BASLE PLATFORM established by the first Zionist Congress in 1897 states: "Zionism aims to create a publicly secured, legally assured home for the Jewish people in Palestine." To help attain this objective Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America participates in the development of Palestine by conducting a country-wide medical and health system and a program of child care, child feeding, recreation and vocational training; by providing for the maintenance and education of European refugee youth settled in Palestine; and by participating in an extensive program of land acquisition and soil conservation. In America, Hadassah carries on a broad program of Jewish education, and an American affairs program of education in democracy with emphasis during the war period on civilian war services.

THE ENTIRE COST of the administrative machinery necessary to promote these activities is derived from the dues of Hadassah members, which also provide for Hadassah's education program, its Zionist political and youth work, its American affairs activities, and for a reserve fund for Palestinian projects. In addition, payment is made from dues for the Shekel, which is the membership fee of the World Zionist Organization.
