OLD GUARDS PAY TRIBUTE TO H. O. SMITH AT DINNER

As many friends of H. O. Smith as could find seats squeezed into the Dorchester Room of the Adolphus Hotel Thursday night to pay their tribute to the man who in June will step down from the principalship of Boys' High School after 36 years of service.

Not grade of the Purple and White, educators and civic leaders from rural Tech Highs were as hard at the testimonial dinner. Dr. Louis D. Newton and others heap praises on "a Harvard man who made good in the South.

The dinner was given by the Boys' High Alumni and Athletic Association, and was presided over by Ernest Rogers as toastmaster.

Among those who spoke on Mr. Smith's long career in educating Atlanta's youth were Mayor Hartsfield, Dr. Rufus Askew, alumni leader, R. E. Shivers, and Mr. Smith, who retires in June after 36 years of service at Boys' High, was honored with a testimonial dinner Thursday night.

Referring to the honoree humorously as "a man who overcame a Harvard education to become one of the South's outstanding educators," Dr. Newton declared that he has helped this community to "keep together in joyous union, the concepts of character and conduct, faith and reason.

Dwelling on the theme that "the history of any institution is the lengthening shadow of a man," the speaker asserted that "Mr. Smith has instilled the affinity of these principles in the minds of Atlanta's young men and so has influenced his community for immeasurable good.

Replying to the tributes, Mr. Smith said he "could see by the calendar when a man is supposed to take a rest, but I shall do so with reluctance, and it will be with an aching feeling that I turn over the keys of Boys' High.

Music for the dinner was provided by the Boys' High Band.

or Spot Demand Buying—Shorts Up 43 Points.

J. B. Gordon, local representative of the J. B. Lederer Company, at the spot market here, purchased 18 bales (100 pounds each) from the Atlanta Warehouse Company Thursday, and this, when ordered, had a price of 18 cents a pound, while the firm quoted 2 cents above. The five-cent spread is believed to be the effect of the spot market and a demand for the crop, but the general feeling is that the crop will be large and that the market will be healthy.

In the cotton market the price has been steady at 18 cents and the crop is well ahead of the 1912 crop. The crop is expected to be large and the market will be steady. The crop is expected to be large and the market will be steady.
